

FIRST RESPONDER

Mental Health Outreach Program

The goal of the First Responder Mental Health Outreach Program is to gain timely access to mental health clinicians who are informed and empathetic to the daily stress and trauma first responders experience.

The program has contracted with trauma informed mental health clinicians across the state who are additionally trained in Critical Incident Stress Management (CISM) and available to attend CISM debriefings as additional support during traumatic events. Clinicians are available to schedule therapy sessions within 72 hours of contact.

To access services, please reach out to a clinician and state you are a first responder. Therapy sessions are confidential, HIPPA compliant, and billed to your insurance plan.

In person and telehealth sessions are available.
