Hugo's Family Marketplace in Grand Forks and Minot Automotive Company receive awards for recognizing the value of employees with disabilities

October is National Disability Employment Awareness Month

BISMARCK, ND - North Dakota Health and Human Services (HHS) Vocational Rehabilitation division has recognized two businesses for supporting an inclusive workforce by hiring, training and inspiring people with disabilities to excel in the workplace.

The agency and State Rehabilitation Council selected Hugo's Family Marketplace of Grand Forks as the 2023 North Dakota State VR Employer of the Year. Minot Automotive Center was recognized with the You Make a Difference Award.

Hugo's Family Marketplace was selected from among 10 nominees and was recognized for efforts to support and inspire individuals with disabilities to achieve employment goals and reach their full potential in their community.

The Grand Forks Vocational Rehabilitation office team member who nominated Hugo's Family Marketplace for this honor said it was because of their long-term commitment to help students with disabilities build job skills and gain valuable work experience in a welcoming and supportive environment.

"We are honored to receive this recognition. We believe all our associates have unique abilities that make them a valuable member of our team," said Hugo's Family Marketplace President and Chief Executive Officer Kristi Magnuson-Nelson. "Being able to provide job training and careers to individuals with disabilities is something that has been integral to our mission for many years."

The statewide You Make a Difference Award honors one business for providing work experience opportunities for students with disabilities that support, develop and inspire them to achieve their goals in a competitive and integrated employment setting.

Minot Automotive Company was recognized for providing students with disabilities work or job shadowing opportunities in the field of automotive technology. They also work with local high schools to provide learning opportunities for students.

Jake Adams, service manager at Minot Automotive Company is grateful for the opportunity to work with students to help them discover their strengths and interests.

“Every single one of us has talent,” Adams said. “Our job as employers and people in the community is to recognize that talent and help people grow their skills to support a strong workforce.”

Other nominees for the Make a Difference Award include Two Rivers Activity Center, Jamestown and Alexander Public Schools, Alexander.

The awards were announced during a ceremony at Vocational Rehabilitation’s annual training conference earlier this month.

“These businesses are model employers who understand what it means to meet the expectations of their customers and foster a positive and inclusive workforce,” said Damian Schlinger, Vocational Rehabilitation director.

The agency’s Vocational Rehabilitation team helps people with disabilities find and retain meaningful work or advance their careers. CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

John Olstad

Portable power lift sitting next to a tractor that is easy-to-use anywhere on the farm.

92-year old gets a second chance at farming

Farming has been a way of life for Hope, N.D. native John Olstad for nearly six decades.

“I’ve always enjoyed watching the crops grow,” he said.

This love for the land is also a family affair involving John’s son, Robert, and grandson, Parker. Together, they farm about 1,500 acres of corn, beans and wheat.

At age 92, John’s daily summer routine involved climbing ladders to get behind the wheel of a tractor or combine until a knee injury sidelined him from the farm.

“He was a little blue and pouty about the injury,” Parker recalls with a smile. “So, I started reaching out to anyone I could to try and figure out a way to keep him going in field.”

Getting help was easy

Parker called a family friend who worked for the North Dakota State University Extension Service. She referred John and Parker to the Fargo Vocational Rehabilitation office.

A VR counselor partnered with a ND Assistive occupational therapist to help John. They drove to the farm to complete a functional assessment on him and discuss potential options to get him back in the tractor or combine cab.

The assessment showed John would benefit from a portable power lift, and six months later it was delivered to the farm. It safely elevates him from the ground to the top step of a tractor or combine in less than two minutes using easy-to-use hand controls. The portability gives him flexibility to use the lift on any piece of farm machinery.

“I can now continue doing what I like to do,” John said.

The whole experience was a win-win for everyone.

“It was a very seamless process. Everybody was extremely helpful and informative,” Parker said. “Everyone went the extra mile for us.”

Building priceless memories

The power lift has allowed John to remain engaged in farming and build family memories.

“Every day when we get to the farm, he’s dressed, his lunch is packed and he’s sitting ready to go before we have even started working,” Parker said. “This has given him a lot of excitement and renewed energy for the job he gets to do.”

The power lift also has neighbors talking in the small-town community.

“I’ve had a couple of people ask me about the process, so they can start looking into this for their parents to help them keep farming,” Parker said.

BUSINESS SUCCESS STORY

AMY'S ANGELS

Amy Giordano received an honorable mention for 2023 VR Employer of the Year award

Williston child care provider creates inclusive workforce

With the need for quality, licensed child care in Williston, Amy Giordano is making an impact on children of all abilities and their families while helping create an inclusive workforce.

“I was a young working mom who needed child care that would accommodate my kids who had medical needs, and it was really hard for me,” she said. “I wanted to find a way to be a good mom, provide for my family and build a community.”

That’s when Amy’s Angels was born in Giordano’s home.

Fast forward 12 years and Amy’s Angels has expanded, moved to a new location and is now a licensed child care center providing care for nearly 60 children. Amy’s Angels works with parents to accommodate children with special needs.

“I’ve even learned how to cook tofu for a child,” she said. “We make sure that every child is taken care of, no matter their needs. Everyone is thriving, functioning, learning and growing here.”

Hiring made easy

When it came time to hire more staff, Giordano used traditional methods to try and attract workers. A simple phone call from the Williston VR office opened a new door that would make her workforce even more inclusive.

A VR counselor and a client who was interested in working in child care did an on-site visit with Giordano. They all discussed necessary accommodations, job responsibilities and requirements to ensure successful placement for everyone.

Creating an inclusive workforce

Even though Giordano has team members with varying abilities, this was the first time she worked with VR.

“It was a very easy process and a great experience. I would do it again in a heartbeat,” she said. “We share a lot of the same vision of connecting people and creating community for people. It has been a very positive experience for the children in my care, their families, my staff and for me.”

Giordano encourages all North Dakota businesses to consider working with VR to solve their part-time or full-time workforce needs.

“People with disabilities have a ton to offer,” she said.
