

Sec. 5-32.2. - Revocation and suspension by city council; server training; hearings before city council; and license fee refunds.

- a. Review of license. The city council may review the status of any license issued pursuant to this chapter, and take appropriate action against the licensee pursuant to this section.

- b. Server training. Server training shall be available for licensees, together with their managers and employees. Server training shall mean training that has been approved by the Jamestown Police Chief and/or the city administrator for managers and employees involved in selling alcoholic beverages at licensed liquor establishments, including restaurants. Persons successfully completing an approved class will receive a server training certificated card which will remain with that individual wherever employed. For new managers and employees not having previously received server training, there shall be a grace period of ninety (90) days in which to successfully complete the approved class. The server training card must be renewed every three (3) years from the anniversary date as shown on the card.
 1. If an agent or employee of an alcoholic beverage licensee possesses a server training certificate card at the time of a failure of a compliance check by such agent or employee, the licensee will receive a written warning, but said violation will not be considered a first offense of the licensee for purposes of the penalty provisions set forth in subsection (a)(2) above. Any subsequent violation, whether committed by the licensee or any agent or employee, will be considered offenses as set forth in subsection (a)(2) above. Any subsequent violation, whether committed by the licensee or any agent or employee, will be considered offenses for purposes of this section.

 2. Suspensions—Food sales. Any suspension of alcoholic beverage license provided for herein shall relate to liquor sales only so that food sales, if applicable, may continue on the licensed premises.
