SAMHSA’S Projects for Assistance in Transition from Homelessness (PATH) funds services for people with serious mental illness (SMI) experiencing homelessness.
According to the North Dakota Coalition for Homeless People’s 2018 point-in-time survey, there were nearly 1,094 persons statewide who were homeless. Of these, nearly 30% had a history of mental illness and 42% had a history of substance abuse.

The PATH program in North Dakota offers an array of essential services and supports that may not be supported by mainstream mental health programs. Some of the services PATH may provide include:

- Outreach
- Case management
- Assistance with applying for and obtaining housing
- Assistance with applying for Social Security benefits
- Behavioral health assessments and referrals to psychological or psychiatric evaluations
- Referral to substance use recovery services

WHERE ARE PATH SERVICES AVAILABLE IN NORTH DAKOTA?

Services provided by the PATH program are available statewide through the Department of Human Services’ Regional Human Service Centers (HSC). Human Service Centers are located in each of the eight major cities in North Dakota:

- WILLISTON
- FARGO
- MINOT
- JAMESTOWN
- DEVILS LAKE
- BISMARCK
- GRAND FORKS
- DICKINSON

HOW TO ACCESS SERVICES

If you or someone you know may be in need of PATH services, contact your closest regional human service center. The PATH Coordinator can help you determine if the PATH program is right for you.

PATH is a program of the North Dakota Department of Human Services and is funded in part by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services: Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration.
