

Meat processors, state or federal, are regulated by the North Dakota Department of Agriculture or the U.S. Department of Agriculture, respectively. Requirements differ for these establishments depending on if they slaughter livestock or process meat products under regulated inspection. Products contain the state or federal mark of inspection and are eligible to be wholesaled within North Dakota. Some establishments also provide custom-exempt slaughter and/or processing services.

A complete list of North Dakota Meat Processors is located at:

<https://www.ndda.nd.gov/divisions/livestock-industries/meat-inspection/north-dakota-meat-processors>

* Retail Meat Establishments, state or local, are regulated by the North Dakota Department of Health & Human Services Food and Lodging or a local public health unit, respectively. State laws require retail food sales including meat, poultry, eggs, and dairy to comply with state licensing and inspection requirements, hence are licensed separately. View areas of regulatory jurisdiction of retail meat establishments at:

This list represents those establishments with multiple-agency regulatory oversight. Some establishments fall under both meat processing and retail regulations and therefore are licensed and inspected by multiple agencies. The inspection conducted by either a federal, state, or local agency depends on the type of establishment, the location in the state, the products sold, and whether products are wholesaled or retailed.
