North Dakota Immunization Information System:
Documenting a Vaccine Exemption

North Dakota allows individuals or their parent/guardian to claim an exemption to vaccination for personal belief (religious and moral/philosophical) reasons. A medical exemption must be signed by a physician and should only be claimed if the client has a medical condition that would make vaccination dangerous to their health. History of disease exemptions can be claimed if the client has a documented medically diagnosed history of disease or laboratory evidence of immunity.

1.) Open a client's record and select the Immunizations tab.

Immunizations

2.) From the Immunizations tab, click the Vaccine Exemption button to enter an exemption to a vaccine.
